Shafer is charged with two counts of first-degree murder and two counts of solicitation of murder for hire.

The alleged shooter and the alleged getaway driver are both also charged with first-degree murder.

Assisted dying law 'rushed'

ASSISTED suicide law is being railroaded through at the expense of elderly and disabled people, campaigners have warned.

Medical and legal experts from across the globe will give evidence on Tuesday morning to an assisted dying committee of 23 MPs hand-picked by Kim Leadbeater, the Labour backbencher who proposed the legislation.

Chief Medical Officer Prof Sir Chris Whitty is expected to be asked how practical it will be for his office to monitor and collect data on assisted deaths, when the session opens.

However, campaigners and charity bosses not invited to give evidence accused the committee of rushing.

Ellen Clifford, co-ordinator of the UK Deaf and Disabled People's Monitoring Coalition, said: "Something of this magnitude needs to go at a much slower pace."

Women's health targets dropped

WES Streeter is to drop women's health targets from a new NHS plan, prompting accusations he is sidelining female patients.

Health officials are to publish guidance for NHS trusts on Thursday.

However, a previously included target to roll out women's health hubs in all parts of the country will be missing, and the he Government's women's health ambassador criticised the move.

Dame Lesley Regan urged the Health Secretary to think again and said it would be "very disappointing".

Brits mock latest bug panic...

STICK YOUR MASKS UP YOUR ARSE!

FED-UP Brits have poo-pooed busybodies who say we should mask up again after declaring yet another bug panic.

Cases of Human metapneumovirus (HMPV) have surged across the UK, with the latest UK Health Security Agency data the showing a positivity rate of 4.9 per cent.

The respiratory virus is particularly affecting the elderly population, with those aged 80 years and over experiencing the highest positivity rate at 7.3 per cent.

Testing data reveals that 7,826 specimens were examined as part of the latest surveillance efforts.

The rising numbers have prompted renewed concerns over the spread of the respiratory illness, which has been adding pressure to already strained healthcare services.

NHS services are facing strain amid the surge in respiratory illnesses, according to Amanda Pritchard, chief executive of England.

"It is difficult to put into words just how tough it is for our frontline staff at the moment," Pritchard posted on Twitter.

She expressed particular concern about the impact of flu and other viruses on both patients and NHS services.

Health officials have advised the British public to consider wearing face masks to prevent further spread of the virus.

But fearless Brits are having none of it.

One wrote on Twitter: "Done with fear porn. I don't believe a single word."

Another raged: "I say 'NO MUZZLES'. Fell for that one once before. Lessons learnt."

A third spat: "Oh piss off".

Battle over extremism definition

THE government is set to reject internal advice to widen the definition of extremism to include potentially violent environmentalists, the far left, conspiracy theorists and men prejudiced against women.

Home Secretary Yvette Cooper does not agree with the central findings of a report she commissioned last year, and will order the government to continue to focus on Islamist and far-right extremism.

It comes after sections of the report were leaked to the right-leaning think tank Policy Exchange.

A Home Office spokesperson said the government is "considering a wide range of potential next steps."

"The report sought to comprehensively assess the challenges facing our country and lay the foundations for a new approach to tackling extremism – so we can stop people being drawn towards hateful ideologies," the spokesperson said.

This includes tackling Islamism and extreme right-wing ideologies.

Third runway 'must be green'

A THIRD runway at Heathrow will not go ahead if it breaches Britain's net zero targets, Ed Miliband has said.

The Energy Secretary was speaking to MPs before an expected announcement by the Chancellor of support for the runway and the expansion of Gatwick and Luton airports.

"Any aviation expansion must be justified within carbon budgets, and if it can't be justified, it won't go ahead," Mr Miliband told the environmental audit committee on Monday.

The Government is obliged to stick to legally binding carbon budgets.

The Climate Change Committee has said that there should be no airport expansion unless there is a UK-wide policy to manage overall capacity.

DOCS TO QUIZ PATIENTS ABOUT GAMBLING

GPs are to ask patients if they gamble, as well as quizzing them on smoking and drinking, under new NHS guidance.

The questions will be included in routine health checks, and the process for registering with a new GP, as part of efforts to identify people who may need help.

The guidance from the National Institute of Health and Care Excellence (NICE) comes after referrals to NHS gambling clinics more than doubled in a year.

Health chiefs have said they face an "uphill battle" to cope with demand, with some estimates suggesting that more than one million people in Britain have a gambling

The guidance highlights the health risks of problem gambling, with surveys suggesting that one in 10 regular gamblers will consider suicide.

GPs are advised to consider asking people about gambling even if they have no obvious risk factors for gambling-related harm, when asking them about smoking, alcohol consumption or use of other substances.

Those who have just left home for the first time should also be quizzed about the topic, the guidance states.

It says attention should be paid to those suffering from depression, anxiety, or conditions such as attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, as well as those taking prescription drugs – such as some for Parkinson's – which can affect impulse control.

GPs are advised to ask direct questions such as "Do you gamble?" and "Are you worried about your own or another person's gambling?" to identify those at greater risk.

Last year research found that one in 40 adults may have a gambling problem – eight times higher than previous estimates.

Meanwhile, a further 12 per cent gamble in a way that puts them at increased risk of gambling-related harms, NICE said.

It said people should be encouraged to assess the severity of their problem by using a questionnaire on the NHS's website, and those with a score of eight or above should be referred to a specialist NHS gambling clinic.

KIDS' CZAR DEMANDS WHOLE-LIFE SENTENCES FOR TEENS

THE Southport inquiry should consider changing the law so that teenage murderers like Axel Rudakubana can be given whole-life sentences, the Children's Commissioner has said.

Rudakubana was sentenced to a minimum of 52 years in prison for murdering three young girls at a Taylor Swift-themed dance class last summer, in an attack that led to country-wide riots.

The judge expressed frustration he could not hand the killer a whole-life order because he was nine days short of his 18th birthday when he carried out the attacks.

Children's Commissioner Dame Rachel de Souza has said that the rules surrounding whole-life orders for 16 and 17-year-olds "seriously needs looking at".

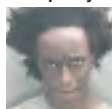

She made the comments as she published a report that found that children who took part in last year's Southport riots joined in the disorder because they "thought it looked fun", she said.

The commissioner said this challenged the narrative "that online misinformation, racism or other right-wing influences were to blame".

It also comes amid a row over whether the law should be changed to allow those under 18 to be given whole life sentences in exceptional cases.

Dame Rachel said: "I hope the inquiry has a look at this."

BEACH BUM EM GETS A BRAZILIAN

BUM WRAP:
Emily shows
off her arse

By GRACE HOOPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

EMILY Ratajkowski got bum fans cheering with her latest online snaps.

The beauty modelled a range of string bikinis during her trip to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The 34-year-old My Body author tantalized her nearly 30 million Instagram followers as she shared a carousel of swimsuit-clad images.

She flashed her famous pout while rocking a pair of narrow, thin-framed, burgundy glasses.

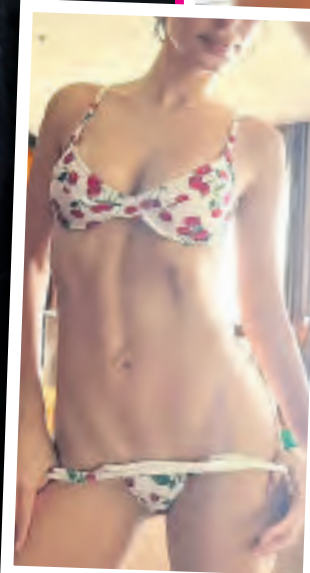

Other photos showed Emily in a barely-there white two-piece covered with cherries.

And in two of the online snaps the mother-of-one flaunted her ARSE in a multicolour bikini.

She was joined on the getaway by her son Sly, who turns four in March, and whom she shares with ex-husband Sebastian Bear-McClard.

The new posts weren't all bikinis and beaches, however.

Ratajkowski made a statement by sharing a closeup shot of a drink menu that included a cocktail called Morte de Elon Musk, which translates as 'death of Elon Musk.'

Just Stop Oil storm stage in West End

TWO Just Stop Oil halfwits disrupted a performance of The Tempest, starring Sigourney Weaver, in London's West End.

A man and a woman from the environmental nuisance group climbed on stage at Theatre Royal Drury Lane on Monday evening.

They launched a confetti cannon and a voice called out: "We'll have to stop the show."

Hollywood actress Weaver, who had been sitting in a chair on stage, was escorted away by a member of the theatre's staff.

A video shared by Just Stop Oil shows the protesters being met with boos and cheers from the audience before being quickly guided off stage.

The protesters had been holding an orange banner reading "Over 1.5 degrees is a global shipwreck".

It was a nod to the plot of Shakespeare's Tempest, which features a ship sinking.

Briton dies in Tenerife pool

A BRITISH holidaymaker has died after being swept into the sea by a wave at a landmark natural rock pool in Tenerife.

The 60-year-old was one of three people who got into difficulties at Los Gigantes natural pool in the west of the island.

The man was found face-down in the sea and airlifted to a sports ground, but efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.

The other two people, both women, managed to reach safety themselves.

AS QUEEN OF BURLESQUE APPEARS IN POP BABE'S

TAYLOR'S PAL DITA IS A PROPER TEESE!

VIDEO STAR: Taylor poses in huge glass

POP babe Taylor Swift has received heaps of praise from the world's biggest burlesque star.

Dita Von Teese credited Taylor with the idea for the pair of them to perform together in her October 2022 Bejeweled music vid.

And she revealed that other entertainers don't bother consulting with her and instead simply steal her signature moves.

Dita said: "The approach that Taylor gave me was a side-by-side one. Certainly, people approach me all the time like, 'Oh, can I use your glass?' Or they don't even ask me, they just copy as best they can."

"She knew everything about burlesque and what I do, which is really amazing."

"And she's so smart, and professional, and funny."

By SUZIE SHELTON
news@sundaysport.co.uk

Dita went on to describe the Eras tour beauty as "amazing" adding: "I just love that she was like, 'I want to showcase what you do'."

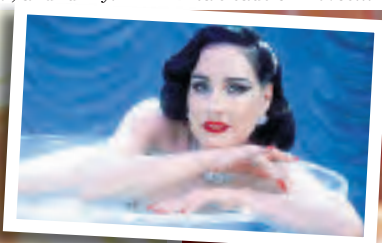

The video sees Taylor transform from Cinderella to a dancer who's clad in a stone-covered corset and red lipstick.

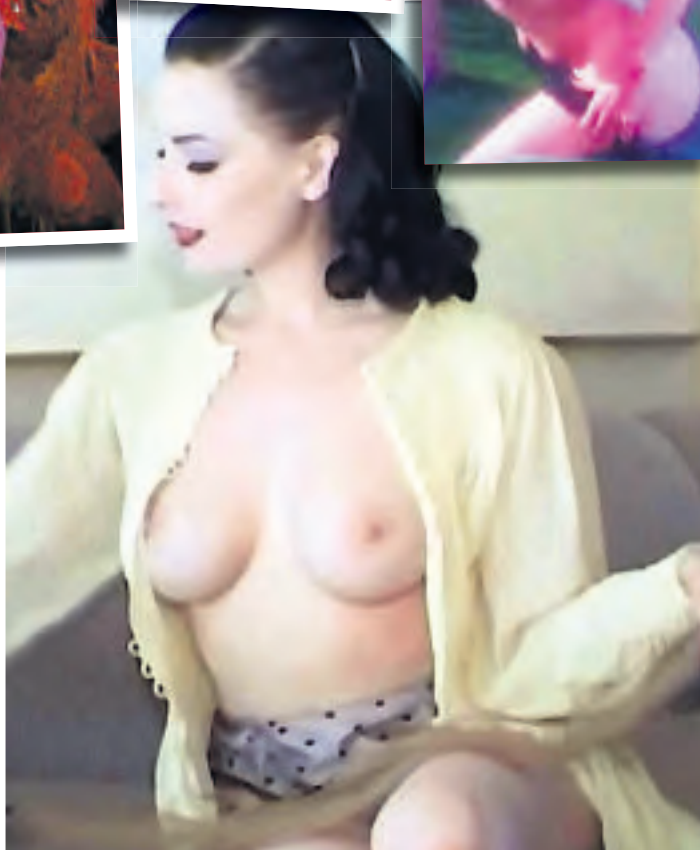

Cameos

The 35-year-old directed the visual for the track — featured on her Midnight album — which included cameos from Laura Dern, Haim and Pat McGrath.

Dita Von Teese is widely credited with having given burlesque — which first came to light in the 1800s — a modern refresh.

Now fans are hoping that Taylor will copy some of Dita's saucier moves...

Chinese AI 'wake-up call' says Trump

US President Donald Trump has called the rise of Chinese company DeepSeek "a wake-up call" for the US tech industry, after the new AI model triggered shockwaves on Wall Street.

Shares in major tech firms such as Nvidia fell sharply, with the chip giant losing almost $600bn (£482bn) in market value.

What has shaken the industry is DeepSeek's claim that its R1 model was made at a fraction of the cost of its rivals – raising questions about the future of America's AI dominance and the scale of investments US firms are planning.

DeepSeek has become the most downloaded free app in the US just a week after it was launched.

Responding to the news, Trump said the latest developments in China's AI industry may be "a positive" for the US.

"If you could do it cheaper, I think that's a good thing for us," he told reporters on board Air Force One.

He also said he was not concerned about the breakthrough, adding the US will remain a dominant player in the field.

Working from home can be bad for health

WORKING from home could be bad for your health, as young adults who do it may get half an hour less exercise per day.

A study of people starting their first job got an extra 28 minutes a day of moderate physical activity, such as walking or cycling.

But those working from home saw an average 32-minute drop in their moderate physical activity.

The results are published in the International Journal of Behavioral Nutrition and Physical Activity.

Dr Eleanor Winpenny, who was senior author of the study at the University of Cambridge, and is now at Imperial College London, said: "If we want to stay healthy throughout our lives, we need to remember that keeping active is an important way of helping us achieve this goal."

"Those working at home might want to consider incorporating physical activity into their day, for example by going for a walk before or after work, or during a lunch break."

HUBBY PAID £8K FOR HITMEN TO KILL HIS WIFE'S LESBIAN LOVER

A BUSINESSMAN paid hitmen £8,000 to kill his wife's lesbian lover, prosecutors allege.

Sammy Shafer Jr, 36, is one of three suspects arrested and charged in connection with the fatal shooting of Portia Rowland, 32, outside the home in Collinsville, Illinois, she shared with Shafer's estranged wife, Sarah.

Sammy Shafer Jr is charged with two counts of first-degree murder and two of solicitation of murder for hire.

Other suspects in the case include Gary D. Johnson, 45, who is charged with two counts of first-degree murder, for allegedly shooting Portia, and one count of possession of a weapon by a felon.

A third suspect, Marty D. Shaw, 33, is charged with two counts of first-degree murder for allegedly being an accomplice who drove the getaway car.

State's Attorney Tom Haine said: "We believe the evidence at trial will show that this was not a random act of violence, but rather a calculated and cold-hearted murder-for-hire scheme based on a personal grievance."

By COLIN HURST

news@sundaysport.co.uk

Investigators followed more than 200 leads and executed more than 30 search warrants, according to Collinsville Lt Eric Owen, who served as deputy commander during the investigation.

Owen said investigators used licence-plate readers to track a suspect vehicle, leading them to a Missouri address, where they took Shaw into custody with the help of St Louis County Police.

Investigators arrested Johnson in Cahokia Heights and Shafer in Caseyville.

The state's attorney's office has filed petitions asking that pretrial releases be denied.

According to reports Sarah Shafer, 34, was living with Rowland and planning to marry her after divorcing her husband.

The couple's last divorce-related hearing was held on January 14, while another one was scheduled for February 25.

Sarah Shafer obtained a three-week emergency order of protection against Sammy Shafer Jr in April 2024, which was later dismissed.

UK population to grow by five million

THE UK population could grow by almost five million over the next decade – to reach 72.5 million by mid-2032 – because of net migration.

The Office for National Statistics projects the rise from 67.6 million in mid-2022 will be driven almost entirely by net migration.

The difference between the number of people arriving and leaving the UK is estimated to total 4.9 million over the 10-year period.

This is compared to the natural change in population – the difference between births and deaths – projected to be "around zero".

The data, published yesterday, assumes the level of net migration will average 340,000 a year from mid-2028 onwards – lower than current levels.

An ONS spokesman said: "Our projections also show an increasingly ageing population, with the number of people aged over 85 projected to nearly double to 3.3 million by 2047."

British MPs should learn from Trump

BRITISH voters back many of US leader Donald Trump's new policies, a poll shows.

In the survey, 2,000 voters were asked what they thought of his agenda on reducing migration, the environment and diversity, but were not told they were Trump's policies.

Trump (above) used his inauguration speech last week to declare a national "border emergency" on the Mexico frontier.

When asked whether a similar "border emergency" should be declared in the English Channel, more than half of British voters said yes.

Voters supported other key elements of Don's speech, including Britain should be a "merit-based, colour-blind society" and there are only two genders.

Those asked also said they would support a British attempt to "fill our strategic [gas] reserves up again right to the top" and export it all over the world – which would be a snub to Ed Miliband's net zero agenda.

They also supported imposing tariffs on other countries to help protect UK workers.

Poll firm Opinium said their findings show UK politicians should look at "taking a page from Mr Trump's book".

Boffins with dementia will 'die sooner'

UNIVERSITY graduates are more likely to suffer a swifter demise from dementia than their less educated peers, new research suggests.

Those who spend longer in education typically have brain "reserves" helping them fend off early symptoms, evidence found.

It means that more advanced disease has usually set in by the time they are finally diagnosed, so they die sooner.

Analysis by scientists at Erasmus University Medical Centre in Rotterdam, Holland, of 261 studies – including 36 relating to educational attainment – found life expectancy after a dementia diagnosis decreased for every extra year of education.

Patients typically survived for 10.5 years, but researchers found each additional year of studies cut survival time by around 2.5 months.

The finding suggests someone who completed an undergraduate degree at 21 would live a year less than someone who left school after sitting their GCSEs.

'EMBARASSING' HISTORY: Submarine will be renamed 'HMS Achilles' – not Agincourt after battle win (below)

'EMBARASSING' HISTORY: Submarine will be renamed 'HMS Achilles' – not Agincourt after battle win (below)

MINISTERS stand accused of “political correctness” after allowing the Navy to rename submarine HMS Agincourt – to avoid offending the FROGS!

In 2018, the Astute-class submarine became the fleet's sixth vessel to be named after the 1415 English victory over the French in the Battle of Agincourt, as part of the Hundred Years' War.

But in a social post on Sunday evening, the Royal Navy announced the ship would be renamed HMS Achilles, subject to approval by the King. It added that the decision had been made "in light of the 80th anniversaries this year of VE and VJ Day", when many French and British troops fought alongside each other.

Victory in Europe Day, marking the announcement of the allies' victory in the Second World War, will take place on May 8.

"Six ships have previously borne the name [Achilles], earning six battle honours, including the River Plate and Okinawa," the Royal Navy said.

It was reported in January last year the Tory Government had

By EDWARD LYONS
news@sundaysport.co.uk

blocked a request from the Navy to change the name of HMS Agincourt.

Grant Shapps, who was Defence Secretary when the initial proposals were said to have been blocked, reacted angrily to the change.

"Renaming the HMS Agincourt is nothing short of sacrilege," he said. "This submarine carries a name that honours a defining moment in British history.

"Under Labour, woke nonsense is being put ahead of tradition and our armed forces' proud heritage."

Sir Gavin Williamson, the Defence Secretary who announced the name of HMS Agincourt in 2018, said: "What next HMS Dreadnought to HMS Fear All, HMS Victory to HMS Defeat? We should take pride in our history, not be embarrassed."

Led by Henry V, an English and Welsh army of about 11,000 men, predominantly archers, defeated a French army of between 20,000 and 30,000 men in the Battle of Agincourt.

Gen Z call for UK dictator

MORE than half of Gen Z believe Britain should be ruled by a dictator while one in three want the army in charge, a new poll shows.

The findings for C4 also suggest the emergence of a stark gender divide among young people and a generation that is simultaneously liberal and authoritarian.

It comes as 52% of people aged 13-27 said they thought "the UK would be a better place if a strong leader was in charge who does not have to bother with Parliament and elections".

While 33% suggested the UK would be better off "if the army was in charge" another 47% agreed "the entire way our society is organised must be radically changed through revolution" – compared with 33% of those aged 45-65.

HAPPY Valley star Sarah Lancashire may be in breach of BBC guidelines by "mimicking" her most famous cop character in a new TV advert.

Sarah, 60, who played police officer Catherine Cawood (above) in three series of the BAFTA-winning Happy Valley stars in a new campaign for Yorkshire Tea.

In the advert, which launched last week, she appears as a no-nonsense security guard trying to solve what appears to be a mini-crime wave in a company's office.

The commercial has proved a huge hit with the star's fans – not least because of the obvious physical and vocal similarities between the security guard and Cawood.

One fan wrote: "Sarah stars in new Yorkshire Tea advert solving office crimes – as Catherine Cawood."

The BBC has strict guidelines to prevent third parties exploiting its programmes, brands and characters, as one section states: "Actors and artists should not appear in promotional work, including adverts, in a way which mimics or replicates their on-air roles for the BBC."

Police cop
guidelines

COPS have been told not to use the terms "black sheep" and "blacklisted" – to avoid any offence.

A nine-page document that forms part of a 2023 diversity guide for staff at Bedfordshire Police and Hertfordshire and Cambridgeshire constabularies says that the terms risk "portraying certain groups as inferior or superior to others".

It states that "pregnant person" should be used instead of references to pregnant women and "Christian-centric" language like the term "faith" should be avoided.

The "reference resource for staff and officers" describes gender as "a social construct relating to behaviours and attributes", adding:

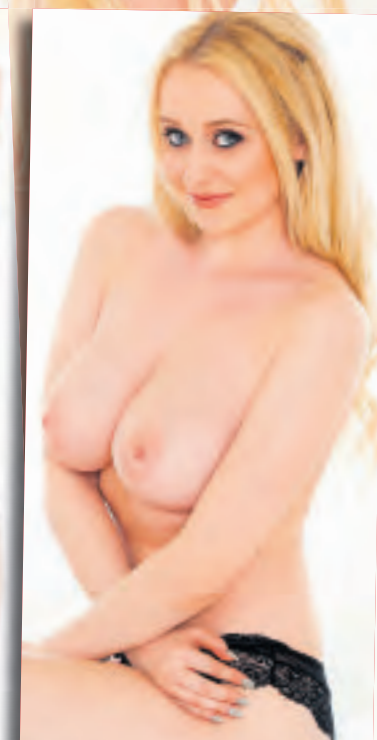

"There is a wider range of gender identities than just male and female."

Police are also reminded to avoid generalisations like older people being grumpy and boring and women in their 50s being menopausal.

At one point, it is also suggested that the term "mature adult" should not be used as it implies that "younger people" can't be mature.

£800 fine for first offence YANKS BAN W*NKING!

NOT BOTHERED HOW ABSURD IT SOUNDS:
 Senator Blackmon

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

AN American politician has introduced a law that would ban men WANKING in the US state of Mississippi.

The proposed legislation is entitled the 'Contraception Begins at Erection Act', and has been brought by pro-abortion politician and Mississippi state Senator Bradford Blackmon.

The bill could see fines of £800 for a first offence, £4,000 for a second offence and £8,000 for any subsequent offences.

Blackmon's bill is not an attempt to ban chicken choking in the Deep South, but to highlight what he says are attacks on women's right to have abortions.

The 36-year-old said: "All across the country, the vast majority of bills relating to contraception and/or abortion focus on the woman's role when men are 50% of the equation."

"This bill highlights that and brings the man's role into the conversation. "People can call it absurd but I can't say that bothers me."

If the bill were to be passed, it would be unlawful for "a person to discharge genetic material without the intent to fertilize an embryo". Exceptions are made for sperm donation and those who use contraception.

Responding to the announcement on social media site Bluesky, one user wrote: "The bill's name is a clear tell."

"This was filed by a young Democrat who is trying to point out Republican hypocrisy on contraception/abortion – not actually trying to outlaw ejaculation. And good for him."

It comes after the Supreme Court overturned Roe vs Wade in 2022 and ended the constitutional right to abortion.

This in turn led to legislatures in Republican-led states further restricting abortion and contraception access.

Mississippi and 11 other states across the US have total or near-total abortion bans.

GEN Z CAN'T CRACK COOKING

NEARLY two thirds of Gen Z adults admit they can't cook – with many of those surveyed saying they don't know how to make an omelette.

A new study by dating app FindingTheOne shows young adults aged 18-28 buy takeaways or eat out at restaurants because of their lack of skills in the kitchen.

The poll surveyed 1,500 people, across different age groups, and also showed just under half Gen Zers described the act of cooking as "stressful" and caused anxiety.

Even simple meals seemed to be a struggle for many – 42% said they couldn't rustle up a stir-fry while 27% said they even struggled to make soup.

Shockingly, even omelettes – which at their most basic feature just one ingredient – proved a problem for 61% of Gen Z adults in the survey.

Divorce not down to sex-ban wife

A FRENCH woman who stopped having sex with her husband has been vindicated after a court ruled she couldn't be blamed for her divorce.

The European Court of Human Rights said her rights were violated after France's legal system found the 69-year-old "at fault" for her divorce.

"I hope this decision will mark a turning point in the fight for women's rights in France," the unnamed woman from Le Chesnay, near Paris, said in a statement.

She filed for divorce after 28 years of marriage in 2012, citing health problems and threats of violence from her husband as reasons why she had stopped sexual relations in 2004.

After a court ruled she was at fault for the split she objected and took her case to the ECHR in 2021.

BOOM IN WARDENS BONKING INMATES

SOARING numbers of prison officers have been caught having sex with inmates.

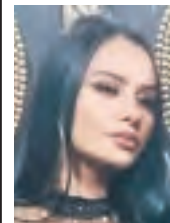

Figures obtained from the Ministry of Justice show that 19 prison staff were charged with misconduct in public office in 2023-24 – the highest number for a decade.

They include Linda De Sousa Abreu, 31 (below), who was jailed for 15 months earlier this month after having sex with a convicted burglar in his cell at Wandsworth jail, south London.

The married prison officer, whose liaisons with Linton Weirich had twice been filmed by another prisoner on a mobile phone, admitted misconduct in public office after being charged when the footage was shared online and went viral.

The figures, obtained through Freedom of Information laws, also show that since 2013 a total of 121 officers have been charged with conducting inappropriate relationships with some of the most dangerous criminals in UK prisons.

In one prison alone – HMP Berwyn in Wrexham – Jennifer Gavan, 29, Ayshea Gunn, 29, and Emily Watson, 28, were all jailed between 2020 and 2023 for having relationships with inmates.

Cows leave Monty with Don-g out!

GREEN-fingered Monty Don has admitted he was left "stark bollock naked" in his garden.

The Gardeners' World presenter, 69, recalled how a herd of cows once caused chaos outside his home in Ivington, Herts.

He said: "Sometimes we have wildlife there that we don't want. One time some cattle got in."

"I got in the bath, looked out of the window and there was this big white face looking at me."

"So I got a towel and rushed outside to chase them. I put on some wellies and then the towel fell and I was running around stark bollock naked."

The star recently revealed his return to work date amid health woes as he landed a new BBC series away from Gardeners' World.

He was forced to cancel live events after staying in hospital for several days.

GONG XI FA CAI, READERS....HAPPY NEW YEAR, ME
OLD CHINA!*GONG XI Fa Cai - it's Chinese New Year!

Lunar New Year - also known as Chinese New Year or Spring Festival - is a cultural celebration marking the start of the lunisolar calendar.

With roots dating back some 3,500 years to ancient China, it signifies the end of winter and the arrival of a new year.

The festival holds deep importance in Chinese culture and is observed with various traditions and festivities.

China's biggest holiday this year marks the arrival of the Year of the Snake, which last happened in 2013.

Lunar New Year is more than just a celebration - it's a vibrant tapestry of cultural heritage, uniting families and communities in a spirit of renewal and hope.

From the meticulous cleaning of homes (chucheng) to banish bad luck, to the explosion of lucky red lanterns, intricate papercuts, and spring couplets (chunlian) adorning every doorway - tradition takes centre stage.

The giving of red envelopes (hongbao) and sharing auspicious meals further strengthen family bonds, marking a great time of optimism for the year ahead.

So to help celebrate, here are some topless and naked babes to give you a real China crisis... in your undercrackers!

MY wildest fantasy is to have sex with two guys at once!

When I'm playing with myself, I imagine I'm in a club and two guys, who are friends, are both flirting with me and grinding against me on the dance floor.

I fancy them both and I can't decide which one to pick so I think sod it, why not take them both home!

We get a taxi back and I'm switching between snogging each one. The driver struggles to keep his eyes on the road.

Back at my flat there is little small talk. They both get their cocks out and I get on my knees and eagerly start sucking them both. I feel a thrill as they both get harder and harder.

Toast

I order them onto the sofa and begin riding one of them, and the other stands while I take his dick down my throat.

We switch positions and I'm on all fours, it feels really deep as one bloke pounds me from behind and the other face fucks me.

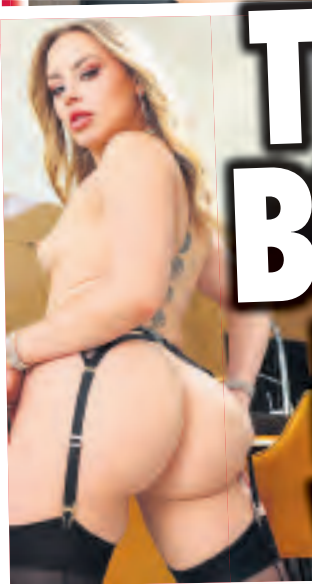

It gets fast and furious and we all cum at the same time, and collapse in a sweaty heap. Then someone makes a well-earned snack of cheese on toast, yum!

"Having a hard willy at each end was sensational!"

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Councils: Have you tried NOT wasting my money?

EVERYONE'S Council Tax bill is about to go up by the maximum amount councils are allowed to hike it.

That's about 5% more being charged on top of what you're already giving them – for fewer and fewer council services.

If you were to listen to the largely Labour councils that are currently going tits up, rest assured you'll hear the excuse of "Tory cuts".

And it's true that there were council funding cuts made by the 2010-15 coalition government led by David Cameron, Nick Clegg and George Osborne.

Collapse

They had to, because after the late Nineties' banking collapse and subsequent breathtaking bailouts running into the hundreds of billions, there simply was less money around.

The other reason why so many councils are completely skint, though – with some already declared bankrupt and others teetering on the brink – is also down to them.

If councils stopped spending other people's money on stupid things that no one actually wants, they'd find they might have some cash left at the end of every month.

They could try, for instance, ditching their dual obsessions with "diversity" and saving polar bears.

They could leave zebra crossings alone instead of expensively painting them in rainbow colours to keep that solitary member of the local Green Party happy.

How about just fixing the potholes and emptying the fking bins?!

My local Labour council recently launched one of those dreaded "consultation" exercises with the people they hate the most – the people who pay their wages.

It asked whether or not people agreed to installing miles and miles of cycle lanes on existing main roads barely wide enough to have two lanes for cars and buses.

Almost everyone said "no thanks". So the council took no notice of them whatsoever and decided to plough on regardless.

The money for the cycling lanes wasn't from Council Tax, you see.

Grasping

It came from a different, save-the-world pot of dosh, set aside to await grasping councils desperately needing to waste our money again.

But whichever pot it's from, whether local or national government, or some pointless quango you don't understand, it all originates from our pockets.

Not some of it, or most of it, but all of it.

Yet the way these clipboard carrying cts act in town halls up and down the land, you'd think they were paying for everything out of their own bank accounts.

So where I live, whether we like it or not, the roads are about to come to a shuddering halt.

And it is just because some twat who used to get picked last in games now has green hair.

And don't get me onto those utterly useless "metro mayors" who, surprise surprise, are also demanding you pay them more money to come up with stupid ideas that will never, ever see the light of day.

AN article in a lesser newspaper at the weekend raised an eyebrow.

It was a piece by a writer seeking to compare Generation X (born mid-1960s to late 70s) with today's Generation Z (late 1990s to 2012).

The scribe described how she used to keep a diary, and how very Bridget Jones of her it was to note down at the beginning of 1997: "Lose a stone, stop smoking, drink less, get a boyfriend."

Except I remember this woman at the beginning of 1997. She was living with someone in London.

Er, yes... me.

Arsonist lit 'disgusting' jiggle joint

A MAN was arrested and charged with arson for setting a strip club on fire – telling police he torched it as it went “against his beliefs”.

Colton Jansen, 25 (above), was nabbed by cops after he was caught on CCTV using a propane torch to set a tissue box on fire after breaking into Shooter's Showgirls in Elk Mound, Wisconsin.

The arsonist told investigators that he wasn't a fan of “those clubs” and found them “disgusting”.

Police, along with eleven local fire departments, rushed to the jiggle joint after they were alerted by motorists on a nearby highway that the structure was engulfed in flames.

No injuries have been reported, officials said, but the club has been shut down since the blaze.

Firebug

The firebug was later identified as a suspect after police tracked his car from the venue to his home using number plate recognition.

Jansen initially denied any involvement in the blaze and claimed his car had been stolen.

But he later admitted torching the business due to his dislike of strip clubs.

He's charged with arson and burglary, according to online court records.

Dog owner froze as pet took dump

A WOMAN froze to death – while letting her dog out for a shit.

Eugenia Michele Wadman, 43, was found dead in her backyard, according to cops in Huron County, Ohio.

Authorities say the doting dog owner stepped outside with her pooch wearing only a pair of light pyjamas when the misfortune fell.

Eugenia “appeared to have fallen and sustained injuries consistent with struggling and crawling on the snow-and-ice-covered yard,” the local sheriff's office said in a statement.

She is suspected to have died from hypothermia after being exposed to the subzero temperatures overnight.

A preliminary police investigation indicates Eugenia may have injured herself and fallen onto the icy ground where she was immobilised due to the cold.

The condition of her dog was unknown.

NEW CONFESSION: Pam

PAM ANDERSON REVEALS FANNY MAG SECRET...

MY MUM PERSUADED ME TO POSE NUDE IN PLAYBOY

ICONIC SHOOT: Pam did Playboy in Oct 1989

PAM Anderson has revealed her own mother persuaded her to bare all in Playboy.

The Baywatch legend revealed all to Martha Stewart during an interview for Elle magazine's latest digital issue.

Pam explained her mum was a big reason she decided to pose for the iconic men's mag in October 1989.

She said: “I was such a shy young girl, if you can believe it – I wanted to do anything to stop being shy.”

“When the Playboy cover came up, my mom said, ‘Do it’. I didn't know what it was going to lead to, but then it led to this wild and crazy life.

“It's hard to navigate a business that is based on physical beauty and also naivety. You're in this business, and you want to please people.

“You have a gut feeling maybe it's not the right thing to do, you can get yourself in dangerous situations.”

By JO ALLEN news@sundaysport.co.uk

In 2018, Pam – now 57 – discussed her mother's influence on her Playboy career, explaining: “It was the woman's choice to be in the magazine. It was my choice to be in it, I wasn't made to do anything I was uncomfortable with.

“My first reaction was, ‘No’, and I talked to mother. And she said, ‘Why not? Get out of this small town, go to Los Angeles’. How exciting!

“I'd never been on a plane before, I'd never gotten out of my little town and I was scared to death by it. I overcame a lot of my painful shyness, that's for sure.”

Now that her Playboy days are behind her, Pam is living a peaceful life in Ladysmith, British Columbia.

The blonde bombshell decided to get back into acting as well as gardening and moving her parents onto her property.

THE ULTIMATE GIRLFRIEND EXPERIENCE!

Swap Messages, Pictures & Videos with Gorgeous Girls!

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Ashleigh,

I HAVE an amazing girlfriend but none of my friends like her and refuse to hang out with me when I am with her.

We have been together for six months and I really think she could be the one – the sex is amazing, there's nothing she won't do in bed, and we get on really well.

She met my friends a few months back and I was desperate to show her off when we all had a night out in a club.

I got smashed and don't remember a thing, but the next day my mates said how she was trying it on with them all and trying to put her hands down their trousers.

My girlfriend denied all of it, and she really isn't the type of girl to do anything like that, but my mates won't change their minds. They say she is not right for me and I'll end up getting hurt.

What should I do?

BC, Southport

Ashleigh says...

WHY would your friends make it up? Looks like you'll have to choose – your girlfriend or your mates.

Dear Ashleigh,

I HAVE a huge problem with a bit of a weird fetish. I like to be tied up and spanked by the opposite sex – and I think about it all the time.

I have met a few mistresses who have similar sexual tastes to me and I have really loved it when they have given me a good caning.

I am really getting into it, but now I am scared that people at work or friends may find out.

I always hide my whip marks, but we had a works football match the other week and I was terrified to have a shower after the game in case my colleagues saw the marks.

I always hide them, but I'm still worried they will be seen one day.

I don't know what to do?

PC, Norfolk

Ashleigh says...

JUST carry on enjoying yourself – we all have little kinky secrets!

My massive boobs have their ups – and downs

Dear Ashleigh,

I'M seriously considering having my 38FF boobs reduced – and that's what I'd like your opinion on.

I'm a 25-year-old redhead who hasn't had too much trouble having my needs satisfied by men (and sometimes women), so sex is not the issue.

I've always enjoyed the looks I've got from men, especially when I wear low-cut tops, and they find it almost impossible not to stare at my cleavage.

I never have any problems getting the fella I fancy to take me home, such is the power of my boobs.

And when I get there, I know how to use my breasts to keep him as long as I want.

In a sex situation they become the centre of attention, and I can control him to make sure my needs are met before he does his thing.

But big boobs do tend to make my back ache sometimes.

They get in the way in the gym and clothes cost a lot more, too, so it's a tricky one.

What do you say?

FG, Derby

Ashleigh says...

SPEND more time on your back! Sex on tap will ease away those aches and pains.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION WITH

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week ASHLEIGH GEE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

Ex-porn star showed me her skills for a tenner!

Dear Ashleigh,

I LIVE on the 25th floor of a council block and I've been unemployed for three years.

Ever since I left school, I have found various ways to occupy my time.

One is doing odd jobs for some of the women in the block where I live.

Most have got young kids and the fathers are often not around.

I'll go round and, for a few quid, fix their plumbing or put up a few shelves – and they are never slow to show me how grateful they are.

Slammed

A lot of them are real mingers and I'd rather have a wank than screw them – though sometimes I accept a quick blowjob in lieu of payment.

Recently, however, an ex-porn actress moved into the block. I recognised her straight away.

She was looking a bit rough and a neighbour told me that she'd fallen on hard times.

Anyway, I went round to offer my services and she said she really needed some help putting some self-assembly furniture together.

We got chatting and she said she still loved to fk and that she'd do anything for a tenner.

So I told her to strip, bend over the couch and finger herself.

She had no problem with this and it wasn't long before I got my rock-solid nine-incher out and slammed it up her gaping fanny.

After a few minutes I pulled out, spun her round and shot my load all over her face.

For the next couple of hours I got her to re-enact every porn scene I could imagine.

I've since enjoyed several such sessions, but now she pesters me pretty much every day for a tenner.

And the truth is, I'm sick of shagging her.

What can I do?

JT, east London

Dear Ashleigh,

I GOT pissed at a party and ended up shagging my fit mother-in-law.

She's well worth a fk, but I've managed to control myself until now.

Everyone had gone to bed when she started coming on to me.

I couldn't believe it when she took her top off to reveal her massive tits.

I was soon rock-hard and took her from behind on the couch.

The next day I saw her and said we should try to forget about it, but she said she's up for more.

I'm tempted, what should I do?

TH, Cornwall

Ashleigh says...

INTRODUCE her to some of your mates.

Ashleigh says...

BE very careful. If your wife finds out, it will be a nightmare for you.

Massages swell my bits – and our bank balance

Dear Ashleigh,

I HAVE a poorly-paid job in on the checkout of a supermarket and the wife and I have been skint lately.

To her credit, she offered to go out and get a bar job at nights to bring in some extra cash.

I have to admit I wasn't too keen on the idea, but she told me not to worry and that she'd be fine.

I'd just managed to get my head round it when I bumped into a friend of hers who shocked me by asking how the missus was doing in the massage parlour!

That night when she got in about 1.30am, I confronted her. She admitted what had been going on and I hit the roof.

But I calmed down a bit when she said she earned about £200 a shift.

Then she described some of the "services" she provided – hand relief, oral and full sex.

As she spoke, I began to get aroused and soon had a stiffy.

What followed was amazing. She took off my clothes and told me to lie on my stomach.

Then she stripped to her bra and panties and began to rub this sweet-smelling oil on me.

By this time my knob was gagging for it, and she took a grip of it as she rolled me over.

She traced her tongue along its length before removing her panties and easing herself on to me.

Soon she built up a rhythm and it took all my self-control to avoid early ejaculation.

I was in heaven, and 10 minutes later we both came to a shuddering climax.

Since then we've had great sex, but I'm still ashamed that she's having to do this job because I can't earn enough.

What should I do?

KD, Birmingham

Ashleigh says...

CARRY on until you get a better job!

DO YOU HAVE A SEX PROBLEM?

LUSCIOUS Lori Buckby has revealed she has an X-rated BUCKET LIST of kinky places she'd love to BONK in!

The busty glamour babe, who boasts a 34C rack, has ticked off quite a few already – including in a sauna and on a Ferris wheel.

The Leicester beauty gets a thrill from risky sex, where she could get caught out.

She said: "I've got down and dirty in some crazy places – me and my ex once got naughty on a Ferris wheel on holiday in Spain!

"Shagging in a sauna was one I've always wanted to tick off, too.

"Me and my fella were on a spa weekend at a posh country house hotel. It was late at night and we were in the sauna and I just sat on him and went for it.

"Someone came in and Grandpa Simpsoned straight out again!"

BUM'S the word for sexy Saskia Jade – as she absolutely loves having her shapely arse spanked while she is being taken from behind!

The glamour model said doggy-style is her favourite sex position, as it gives her lucky fella a glorious view of her shapely posterior.

And the babe, from Camberwell, south London, is even partial to a little slap and tickle between the sheets.

Cheeky Saskia, who boasts 32C curves, said: "I love doing it doggy-style."

"I really like to be submissive and have no control."

"I love the feeling of being completely dominated – it's such a real turn-on, especially when he's being a little bit rough."

"I have to admit I like a bit of spanking and having my hair lightly pulled, so doggy-style is just perfect for that."

HORSE RACING: ALL TODAY'S BEST BETS

Rumble hungry to score for Rog

TEAL RUNNER CAN PULL OFF QUICKFIRE DOUBLE

DISTANT RUMBLE can complete as swift course-and-distance double in the Try Unibet's New Smartview Racecards Handicap at Kempton.

Roger Teal's charge was out of luck in five juvenile outings from May through to September, but he did improve in increments and ended his two-year-old campaign with a couple of placed efforts at Bath.

Subsequently gelded and given a bit of time off the track, he returned to action at this course last week, stepping up to six furlongs for the first time to good effect.

Progression

Racing off a mark of 68, he grabbed the lead inside the distance and went on to prevail by a length and a quarter, keeping on well in the closing stages.

Distant Rumble has to contend with a 6lb penalty here, but he looked as though he could be open to more progression and can defy that higher mark.

Quai De Bethune is the pick in the second division of the Unibet Supports Safer Gambling Maiden Stakes.

A modest €75,000 purchase as a yearling, he was sent off a 33-1 shot on his debut for Andrew Balding at Sandown back in September.

He was beaten eight and a quarter lengths in third, behind a winner who is entered in the Irish 2,000 Guineas and a runner-up who ran Classic contender Bay City Roller to less than a length on debut.

Quai De Bethune was slowly away that day and looked very much in need of the experience, with the slight switch up to a mile here a positive on pedigree.

Opera Ballo is one to watch in division one. He is having his first start for Charlie Appleby having bypassed a juvenile campaign, but given his sire

Ghaiyyath really reached his peak at four and beyond, his best days should be ahead of him.

Whizz By can live up to her name by chalking up a fourth successive victory in the Unibet Zero% Mission (London Mile Series Qualifier) Handicap.

She has won three times at Southwell now, rising from a mark of 51 to her current perch of 67 after a recent half-length win.

Bumper

Her previous effort at Kempton in July last year yielded no joy, but she is a filly in form for Tom Ward and seemingly very game.

Sole Solution hit the target when upped to a longer trip and can thrive for an even sterner test in the Haldon Stayers' Handicap Hurdle at Exeter.

Twice a bumper winner in the 2022/3 season, he was then off the track for 678 days before returning with a sixth place at Bangor in November.

His subsequent 14-length defeat at the hands of Sixmilebridge now reads better following that runner's Grade Two success at Cheltenham on Saturday, while Sole Solution prevailed himself when upped to an extended two miles and five furlongs at Hereford in mid-January.

In-form trainer Venetia Williams has set him a test of two furlongs further here but given the ease of his victory, Sole Solution should not be out of his depth and can strike.

Dyr looks value at Southwell

THURSDAY TIPS

DYRHOLAEY can make a successful start to his 2025 campaign in the £5 Free Bet With BetUK Handicap at Southwell.

The four-year-old won his first three starts on the all-weather for Archie Watson, prompting powerhouse owners Wathnan Racing to secure his services prior a planned outing at Royal Ascot last summer.

He was ultimately well beaten in the Palace of Holyrood House Stakes, however, and was not seen again until reappearing on a Monday night at Wolverhampton in late December.

A hot favourite to make a triumphant return, Dyrholaeay had to make do with minor honours in third, but it was not a bad effort on his first start since being gelded and he should improve for the run.

Running over the same six-furlong trip in Nottinghamshire, Watson's charge should prove hard to beat.

Improving mare Caramay looks well placed to continue her excellent run of form in the Weekly £5 Free Bet With BetUK Handicap.

Trained in partnership by William Muir and Chris Grassick, the daughter of Lethal Force has won five of her last eight starts and has gone up 22lb in the weights as a result.

Two of those victories have come at Southwell and she returns on a hat-trick after following up a dominant Wolverhampton success with a determined display here a week later.

While the winning margin was only half a length that day, she won with enough authority to suggest her winning streak might not be over.

Evening all-weather fare comes from Chelmsford, where Diamond Katie looks a solid betting proposition in the Bet Boost At bet365 Fillies' Novice Stakes.

TOONE TRIBUTE TO HER FATHER

MANCHESTER United and England midfielder Ella Toone has written about her grief as she paid tribute to her father who died in September last year.

Nick Toone died three days short of his 60th birthday, having been diagnosed with prostate cancer the day after he had watched Ella score in the Euro 2022 final, a match in which England beat Germany 2-1 at Wembley.

Writing for the Players' Tribune, Toone, 25, said she was still trying to process her feelings because it had come as a shock, in large part because her father had not explained to her how ill he was until near the end.

"When he passed, it was a big shock, even to some of the people closest to him, because no one hardly knew he was ill," Toone wrote. "People ask me now, 'Why didn't you tell us?' And I'm like, I didn't know either. I didn't know half of it..."

"For the past few months, I've been trying to figure it all out, trying to get unstuck. It's still raw. I still feel the pain digging in, the gutting feeling of not having him here anymore."

"Even now, sometimes I think he's going to come back, like he's right in the other room waiting for me to come around the corner so he can have a joke or some banter ... he was always on a wind up."

Toone paid tribute to her father's role in her career, from taking her to her first practices and, at the age of six, promising her £10 for every goal she scored for the Astley and Tyldesley Girls team in Greater Manchester – a pledge that cost him £100 in her first game.

Toone recalled how her parents would travel to watch all of her games as a pro, then re-watched recordings at home before her dad phoned her to talk them over.

Toone said her first clue that something was not right came as he looked ill after the opening game of the Euros, England's 1-0 win over Austria at Old Trafford, and then missed the game against Norway which was played in Brighton.

But both her parents continued to tell Toone that her dad was simply "not feeling too well", and she did not get a fuller picture until after United's 4-0 FA Cup final win over Tottenham last May, a match in which Toone scored the opener. That was the first time cancer was mentioned.

"I'm still processing," Toone added. "This is my first try at really talking about it. Like dad said, The Toones are not great at feelings. But I wanted to write this, for anyone grieving and feeling alone."

STAFF CALL: Farrell

Farrell firms up his Lions coaches

RUGBY UNION

THE British and Irish Lions have confirmed David Nucifora and Aled Walters as the first appointments as Andy Farrell's backroom staff for this summer's tour to Australia.

Nucifora has been seconded from Scottish Rugby and will perform the role of general manager of performance, while head of athletic performance Walters joins from the Irish Rugby Football Union.

Completing the trio of recruits for the 10-fixture tour is Ireland's Vinny Hammond, who will travel Down Under as head of analysis.

Nucifora is Australian, won two caps in the early 1990s and worked closely with current Wallabies boss Joe Schmidt when they were both employed by the IRFU, while Walters helped South Africa win the 2019 World Cup.

"In David, Aled and Vinny we have three of the absolute best joining us for the tour to Australia this summer, culminating in the highly anticipated Test series against the Wallabies," Farrell said.

"David's unrivalled experience will help us shape and deliver such a challenging and exciting rugby programme, whilst also bringing essential insight into Australian rugby and the country as a whole."

"Aled is a World Cup winner who has worked with players across England and Ireland and has also coached in Australia and Super Rugby with the Brumbies."

"And Vinny's Lions pedigree from New Zealand and South Africa brings continuity and experience, which will be crucial to success down under."

■ TEAM England Rugby Ltd will represent the Red Roses in a partnership that will align the interests of the England men's and women's sides.

TER was set up last year to manage the playing and commercial rights of Steve Borthwick's squad but has now also taken on responsibility for this year's World Cup hosts.

The partnership will cover all matters concerning Red Roses contracts, which are funded by the Rugby Football Union.

Among the goals of the agreement are to support the growth of the women's international game.

ZAK ATTACK

Crawley binned by SA Sunrisers after flops

CRICKET By NED TRUEMAN

ENGLAND Test opener Zak Crawley is facing an abrupt end to his stint in the SA20 league, with Sunrisers Eastern Cape ready to drop the struggling batter.

Crawley found himself under renewed scrutiny after a meagre 52 runs in six innings in a three-match series against New Zealand before Christmas, dismissed on all six occasions by his new-ball nemesis Matt Henry, but hoped for a change in fortunes in his overseas stint in Gqeberha.

Losses

A move to the T20 format has not been the morale-boosting diversion the 26-year-old wanted, with an average of 11 in his eight innings for Sunrisers.

Crawley was dismissed first ball of the match against Joburg Super Kings in his most recent outing and it now appears the franchise are ready to cut their losses.

"T20 is a brutal game if you're out of form. It doesn't give time," head coach Adi Birrell said.

"I really feel for him. He's a great guy who puts in the hard work and tries his utmost best to turn it around. But it's been hard for him."

"He's been getting out to straight balls but also caught behind off wide balls. He's been getting out in two modes."

"We are going to have to look at it and come up with the plan for the next game. We've obviously backed him until now. We have got other options."

Meanwhile, fast bowler Mark Wood is delighted to hear England coach Brendon

McCullum say he won't be wrapped in cotton wool any more.

"I was surprised but pleased," Wood said, reacting to Baz's comments.

"We've got big things (this year) but I've missed so many games for England that, when you have a chance, you want to play."

Wood, who turned 35 this month, is at the start of his latest comeback, having been out since last August with a minor thigh problem followed by the more serious issue of bone stress in his right elbow.

He was initially told not to lift his children with his right arm but while Wood did not fear he would lose his ability to bowl 95mph-plus deliveries, there were other concerns with being out for so long.

"The question is whether I can still be as good or consistent or accurate," Wood said.

"I do doubt if I will come back the same, or if that is it, with the age I am at. They are the doubts I have. I know if I come back, I will still bowl fast."

Short-term

"But I haven't got many miles on my clock. I work hard on my fitness. I worked hard in that downtime. One percenters like not drinking, trying to eat well, all plays a small part."

"I was a late developer in cricket. I wasn't bowling quickly until my early 20s. I don't see why I can't keep bowling quickly in the short-term."

Wood was key to England's 2019 50-over World Cup triumph on home soil and the 2022 T20 equivalent in Australia, while he claimed the wicket that sealed his nation's last Ashes triumph a decade ago.

The next 12 months offer several opportunities to add to his legacy and a blockbuster Ashes in Australia might feel like a logical end point, with Wood admitting the thought has crossed his mind.

"I would feel that as well, thinking this is the age people usually stop," he said.

"I think when you look at what's coming up, you think could that be the end or could this be the last time I play here?"

"You just don't know and I think, as you get older, that creeps in more."

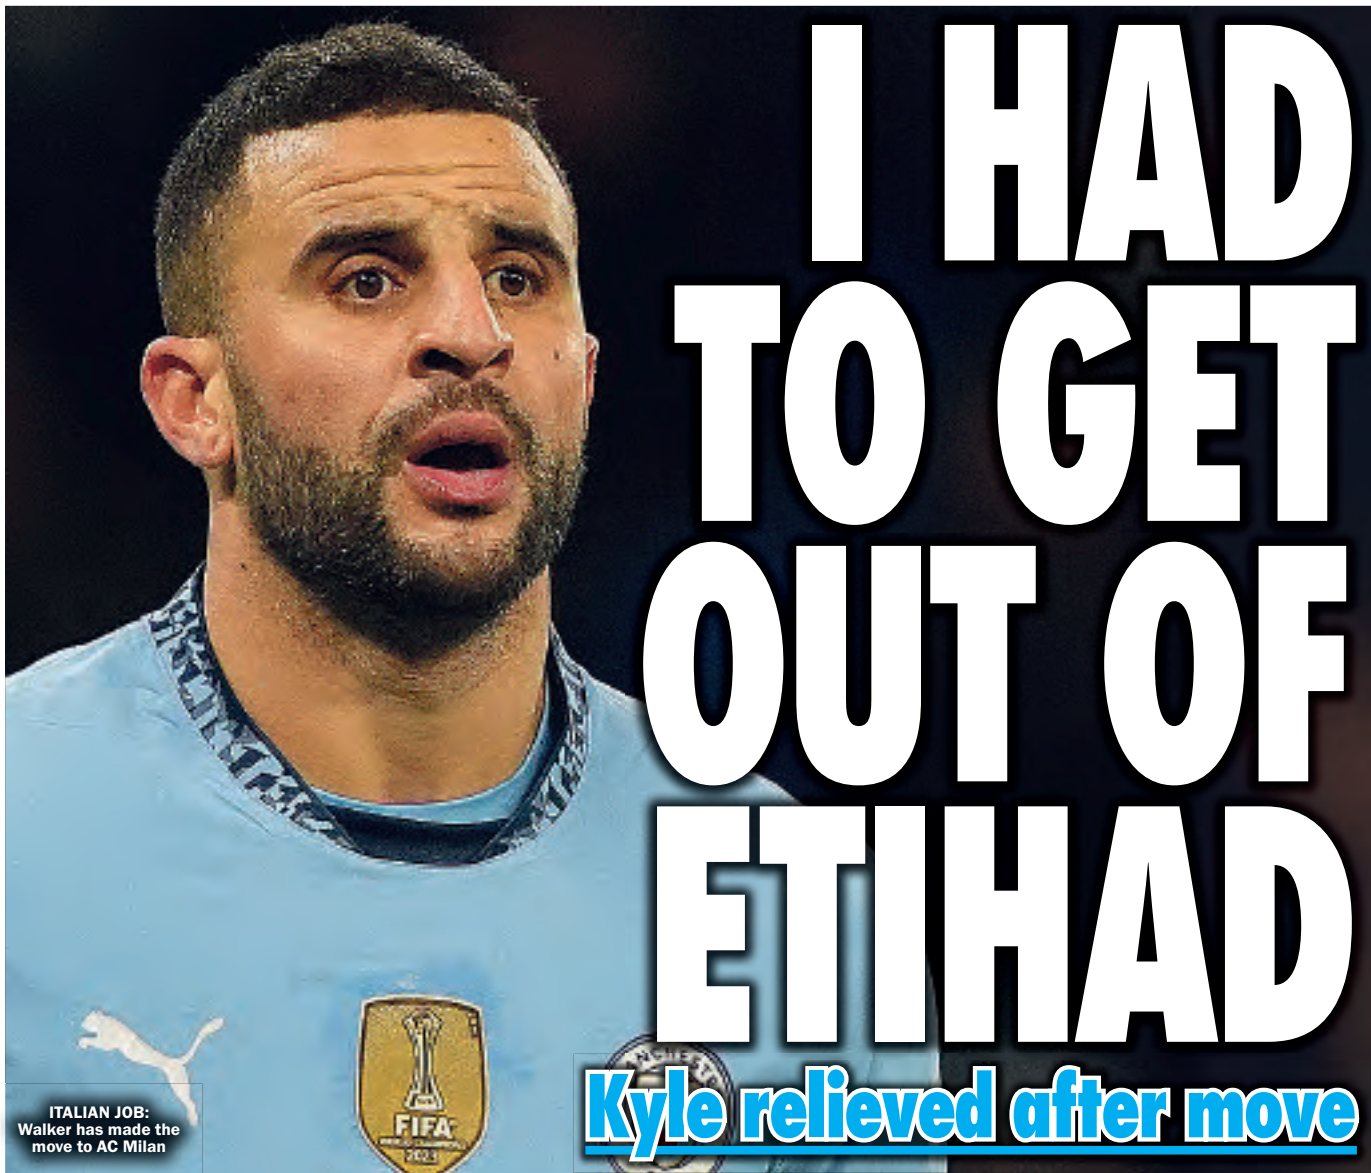

"When I was in my mid-20s or when I first started for England, I never thought that would be the case. Now, there's all these young guns coming through, am I still at the standard required to play for England?"

"I have belief in myself and as long as the close circle around you, McCullum, the captain, your team-mates, believe in you as well then that gives you more confidence."

ITALIAN JOB:
Walker has made the move to AC Milan

KYLE Walker has said joining AC Milan was an opportunity he could not turn down following his move from Manchester City.

It was announced last Friday that the 34-year-old England right-back had signed for Milan on loan from City for the rest of the season, with an option for the Serie A outfit to make the switch permanent.

Speaking at a press conference alongside Zlatan Ibrahimovic, the former Milan striker now working as a senior adviser to the club's ownership and management, Walker said: "I could have stayed in Manchester. I still had a contract there. But I think it comes down to challenges in life.

Knocking

"Sometimes you find yourself in a little bit of a situation where you think 'I need to try something different', and I've spoken to many players, many ex-players, who have not moved abroad to a different league, and they said to me 'I wish I'd experienced it'.

"If I wasn't going to a big club, I don't think I would have done it. I think I would have stayed in the Premier League, at Manchester City, and continued my career there.

"But when a club like this comes knocking on the door for you, I think there's only certain clubs in the world that you can kind of not say no to, and this was the opportunity I wanted.

"When I spoke to Zlatan he made it clear they were excited, they wanted to take me on board and that made me feel secure, that made me feel this is the right decision, that was the gut feeling I had."

Walker, who City boss Pep Guardiola signed for the club in 2017 and has won a glut of silverware since, including six Premier League titles and the Champions League, made the most recent of his 11 starts this season on December 15.

Guardiola revealed on January 11 that the defender had two days earlier "asked to explore the options to play abroad".

Walker said: "Obviously things at Manchester City wasn't going too well and I wasn't playing enough football. So a reason for me wanting to come and play for this great club was that I hopefully can play a little bit more football than what I was there, and I want to win things.

"When I spoke with Pep it wasn't a very comfortable conversation because of the respect we both have for each other, from what we've achieved at Manchester City.

"I'd like to think he knows what I bring to the dressing room and the atmosphere I create."

He added: "At Manchester City it was my family – from the cooks to the cleaner, the kit men, the physios. I would like to think I was liked a lot and I made sure everyone was blended in together.

"I just have to try to find the same here.

"I have to learn a lot of names, I need to speak Italian, I'm going to do Italian lessons, but it's something I'm committed to and wanting to learn.

"I'm so hungry, I still have the fire in my belly to go and achieve things, and that's the main thing, that's why I really want to come here – I don't want to just win things in one country, I want to come to another country and also win there as well."

Believe

Ibrahimovic said: "The fact he's a leader on and off the pitch, this is a characteristic we need.

"He's an alpha male in the dressing room and he can give a helping hand when the going gets tough, when things are going well as well.

"But he's not only very good on the pitch, he's very strong off the field as well. He can offer a great deal in a number of different areas. We're talking about a right-back but we also believe he can play as a centre-back."

Milan, who replaced boss Paulo Fonseca with Sergio Conceicao last month, are currently seventh in Serie A.

NAISMITH BACK AT HATTERS

CHAMPIONSHIP strugglers Luton have signed Bristol City defender Kal Naismith on loan for the rest of the season.

The 32-year-old is set for a second stint at Kenilworth Road, having been player of the season in 2021-22.

The Scot has made just seven appearances for City this season, last seeing first-team action in November, and is ready to throw himself back into the battle on familiar turf.

"I'm delighted, I feel like a kid again," he said.

"I'm grateful to get this opportunity to come back again. We're not in a great place at the minute but it's still an amazing place with amazing people, if I can come in and add to that, hopefully have a good end to the season, that's what I'm here to do."

CARDIFF have acquired midfielder Sivert Mannsverk on loan from Ajax until the end of the season, subject to international clearance.

The 22-year-old Norway youth international joined Molde in 2021, then signed a five-year contract with Ajax in 2023. He said: "This is a big challenge for me. That's also why I wanted to take this challenge, because I like challenges. The Championship is a tough league, so hopefully it fits my type of play."

Centre-back Matt Clarke has returned to Derby, this time from Middlesbrough on a permanent deal until the conclusion of the campaign.

The 28-year-old spent the 2019-20 and 2020-21 seasons with the Rams on loan from Brighton, winning the Championship side's player of the season award.

Pep: We need a special display

GUARDIOLA FEARING A CHAMPIONS LEAGUE KO

PEP Guardiola is calling for "something special" from his Manchester City side to save their Champions League campaign.

City, the 2023 winners, must beat Club Brugge at the Etihad Stadium on Wednesday to stay in the competition.

Guardiola's team have slipped outside the top 24 in the league phase after winning just two of their first seven matches.

"The situation that we have is that we have to win the game and if not we will not continue in this competition," said the City manager.

Emotions

"But it's not a problem, it's an opportunity, a challenge, and we will face it."

"We would like to score a lot in the first 20 minutes but I don't think it is going to happen. The approach is to read the game we have to play—be completely relaxed, no emotions and understand the game."

"I know these type of games you have to put in something special — something there has not been enough of so far in this Champions League — to win the games."

City find themselves in this predicament after surrendering a 2-0 lead to lose 4-2 at Paris St Germain last week.

Yet although they are two points outside the play-off positions, their task is at least straightforward because Club Brugge are one of the teams above them that they can catch in the standings.

Victory therefore would be enough to snatch a play-off spot and Guardiola, also a two-time winning coach with Barcelona, is used to dealing with such big-match pressures.

He said: "I've been many years in the Champions League since I started my career as a manager, and these type of games I've played many times during my career."

"Sooner or later you have to play these type of games where if you win you go through and if you don't you go out.

NERVOUS: Pep faces the media

"It's happened more in the further stages but we are here for the reasons we know, that we have not been good enough, but this is a situation we have lived many times."

Guardiola is refusing to contemplate the prospect of defeat.

He said at a press conference: "It would not be good (to lose) but I'm not thinking about that right now."

Asked if it would be embarrassing, he said: "Ask me the question after. I know you want it!"

"Thank you for your concern again. I know how worried you are if we are out."

"After the game you can ask me and I will answer you."

The stakes are also high for Club Brugge, who come into the game on the back of a 20-game unbeaten run.

Guardiola said: "It's a final for both of us. I expect a tough opponent."

"When a team is 20-21 games unbeaten it is because they are good. There are no secrets about that. That's how it is."

"They do it really well — different variations in the build-up, a man-marking situation, it is always uncomfortable."

Hopeful

"We have to do it well but in every team, Manchester City included, there are weaknesses. You have to try to discover all of them and try to punish them."

City are without defenders Nathan Ake and Ruben Dias but are hopeful John Stones, who has not started for a month, will be fit after appearing off the bench against Chelsea on Saturday.

Guardiola said: "He played 35 minutes and played really well. We will see how he feels."

OLD FOE: Peter Bosz

Liverpool are boss says PSV boss Bosz

PSV Eindhoven head coach Peter Bosz has watched Liverpool as a fan more times than most other teams and is impressed with what compatriot Arne Slot has achieved in his maiden season.

The last time the two coaches faced each was in a 2-2 draw in March when Slot was in charge of Feyenoord, with Bosz's side going on to win the Eredivisie by seven points from their title rivals.

Slot's record against Bosz is not particularly good, with one win and two defeats in four meetings, but the Eindhoven boss admits the advantage has tilted towards his countryman because of the higher quality now at his disposal.

"As a fan, I watch them more often than many other teams. They play very nice football. Arne Slot is doing particularly well," he told a press conference.

"Going to another country is already a challenge, but going to a top club is even more difficult."

"I find it remarkable that Liverpool made few big purchases and they just went with the existing group. That may have been an advantage."

"I see comparisons between his Liverpool and his Feyenoord from last year when I look at his tactics: letting the striker drop, wanting to create an excess in midfield, letting the goalkeeper build up, these are all things he did at Feyenoord."

"The difference is with this Liverpool team he has better players."

PSV need a point to secure a play-off place and even if Liverpool — already qualified for the last 16 and needing a point to guarantee top spot — field a weakened side ahead of a tough test at Bournemouth, Bosz knows it will not be easy.

"The goal is to reach the next round. We are going to play against perhaps the best club in Europe, if not the world," he added.

"We can see if we can compete at this level."

Liverpool defender Joe Gomez has returned to training to give head coach Arne Slot a boost.

However, midfielder Curtis Jones, who missed Saturday's win over Ipswich with a groin problem, and striker Diogo Jota, who has been out for a fortnight with a muscle injury, have yet to rejoin the squad.

HOPEFUL: John Stones should be fit for the crucial Bruges game

SHOCK OLIVER TWIST!

Now under-fire Michael gets BANNED from reffing Arsenal v Man City clash

MICHAEL Oliver will not referee the Premier League match between Arsenal and Manchester City on Sunday after being at the centre of a controversial incident involving the Gunners last weekend.

Oliver is regarded as one of the world's top officials but has faced threats and abuse since his decision to send off Arsenal's Myles Lewis-Skelly in a match at Wolves last Saturday.

The 39-year-old's home is reportedly under police guard following threats towards him and his family, which have been condemned by his employer Professional Game Match Officials Limited (PGMOL).

Oliver will instead officiate the Ipswich v Southampton match this Saturday.

Before that, he will be in charge for the Champions League match between Barcelona and Atalanta on Wednesday night.

Oliver sent Lewis-Skelly off for a tackle on Wolves' Matt Doherty. His decision was reviewed and upheld by VAR Darren England, who this weekend will referee the match between Bournemouth and Liverpool.

Former referee Dermot Gallagher said referee abuse was damaging the pipeline of future officials.

"If I was 21 again (and starting out in refereeing) my dad would say, 'you are not going to do that,' Gallagher said.

"If that happens to Michael Oliver, who's one of the best referees in the world, I am not letting you do that.

It won't happen. What you're doing, you're not actually having to go at Michael Oliver... you're stopping the lifeblood coming through behind him."

Former Manchester City defender Micah Richards described the decision as the worst he had seen.

Record

"I don't like using the word 'disgrace' because it's easy to throw that word out, but if you look at the magnitude of that decision, it was so poor and then for them to double down on the decision, I just think it's shocking," Richards said.

Gary Lineker described it as "baffling", adding: "I hope they turn it over for the youngster because he doesn't deserve a red on his record." Alan Shearer added: "There was not one bit of that challenge that meets the criteria for a red card."

Referees' Association chairman

Paul Field said in his view, former player pundits were the biggest contributors to the social media "pile-ons" affecting his organisation's members.

"These pundits, ex-professionals, who pile on are the source of the problem. I think the broadcasters have a duty of care to people," he said.

"Ofcom ought to be writing to some of these media companies and radio companies, just to remind them of their own obligations."

In more refereeing news, David Coote "deserves" to have a continued role in English football, the chairman of the Referees' Association has said.

Coote's contract as an elite-level referee with Professional Game Match Officials Limited (PGMOL) was terminated last month.

That came after a video emerged showing him making derogatory comments about Liverpool FC and their former manager Jurgen Klopp.

A separate video also showed Coote taking cocaine.

In an interview with a newspaper, Coote came out as gay and said his struggle to hide his sexuality had contributed to him making bad choices, such as the video about Liverpool, and his use of drugs.

Coote remains one of the most highly regarded VARs in Europe, and is keen when the time is right to have a role related to officiating, if not an on-field one.

Effort

Paul Field, the chairman of the RA which looks after the welfare of referees at all levels, has already seen the work Coote has done with young officials and hopes that experience is not lost to the English game.

"He deserves to have a role. The work he does with young people is exemplary," Field said.

"He's an unbelievable tutor. He puts so much time and effort into the up-and-coming grassroots officials. He has a magnificent role to offer in terms of coaching, mentoring and support.

"I'd love for him to stay in the UK. I'd love him to be part of the English FA, training, mentoring, out of the public light to look after himself. He has so much to offer.

"I don't think he knows how much respect he has from other referees for the work he has done."

Sources close to Coote say he is keeping an open mind about what he may look to do next now his reffing days are over.

He is understood to remain confident that a Football Association investigation into messages exchanged with a Leeds fan concerning showing a yellow card to one of their players in 2019 will clear him.

Coote also spoke about the mental strain created by the abuse he faced, which included death threats aimed at him and his mother.

Field said he could understand why Coote had not gone public about his sexuality while he was refereeing, adding: "Whatever angle supporters can have a go at, they'll have a go at."

"The referee abuse we have is horrendous and any excuse for any of these morons to have a go at us, they will use that excuse."

Meanwhile, Arsenal are appealing against the controversial red card for Lewis-Skelly that kicked off the whole shenanigans.

He trained with his Arsenal team-mates at the club's London Colney base on Tuesday prior to their final Champions League group fixture against Girona.

JOTA HAPPY TO BE HOME

JOTA admitted his 18 months away from Celtic Park felt like a decade.

But the Portuguese winger felt like he had never been away after his first training session back.

Celtic have secured Jota on a five-and-a-half-year contract after he swapped places with Kyogo Furuhashi. The 25-year-old has completed his move from Rennes 18 months after leaving Celtic in a reported £25m move to Saudi Arabian side Al-Ittihad.

Former Benfica player Jota scored 28 goals across two seasons with Celtic.

Jota said: "I'm buzzing. It feels like home and for me that's something that I was aiming for. Going to Lennoxtown and training, it felt like I've never left."

"It's obviously been a year and a half with some difficulties, mostly inside the pitch where I didn't have a lot of opportunities to play. I just can't wait to get back out there."

Scholes: Ban him from United dressing room

PAUL Scholes feels Marcus Rashford has "let a lot of people down" and says he should be "banished" from the Manchester United dressing room.

Rashford has not featured in any of United's last 11 matches in all competitions, with boss Ruben Amorim leaving the 27-year-old out of the matchday squad on all but one occasion.

Scholes said: "I think Marcus has let a lot of people down, with his attitude."

"You think of the young players coming through the team, think of Garnacho, they're looking up to people like Marcus now - he's 27 years of age, and he's clearly not training properly."

"I remember years ago when I told Sir Alex Ferguson I didn't want to play in that Arsenal game... he said to me 'the worst thing you did is let your team-mates down', and that really stuck with me - and now I think Marcus is doing the same."

"So I think the fact of letting your team-mates down in that dressing room - he should be banished from the dressing room really. If he's in and around that and young people are seeing that as an example, the sooner he's gone the better."
